Here is the program of the South for ne distribution of Cabinet officers, as outlined by a Democratic journal: "The South will ask for the Postoffice Department, the Interior Department and the The Bourpost of Attorney-teneral." The Sour-bons are clearly determined to get there this time. Oh, for a breath of Jeffer-sonian simplicity in these days of "Sothern" aristocrate and Northern millionaires!

The Republican party of New York, says The Press, has not for many years been in better condition than to-day. Representing imperishable principles it is freed from the burden of public Neither in state nor in Nation has the Republican party any patronage to distribute, or official emolument to offer as an inducement to Republican fidelity or a temptation to Democratic treachery. The Republican party is also clear of the driftwood which, while emed to add to the size of the party, was a positive obstruction to its progress and a serious drain upon its vitality. It is somtimes good fortune to be unfortunate, if only to ascertain who are real and who are pretended loy-alists, and to be enabled to divide the genuine from the dross.

It is all the more binding upon Republicans, therefore, to prove by their course and example that the spirit of the party is firm, its courage unshaken and its filelity to American principles and interests as true and steadfast as ever. There should be no trading, no exchange of votes, no yielding of the right to the expedient. The Democratic factions are certain to make an exhibi tion of themselves that will alienate the better sentiment of the community and lead thousands of thoughtful and intelligent Democrats to look elsewhere for reilef. The Republican party should so conduct itself that when the people turn in disgust from the spectacles of Democratic littleness and meanness, corruption, dissention and hypocrisy, they will find the Republican party unsmirehed by Democratle mud and clear of Democratic entanglements, strong in organization and sound and unequivocal in principle.

The Democrats have not even had a love feast after their victory. They have begun their Klikenny cat contro versey over the spoils while yet the spoils are in the distance. They are fighting each other with a vigor more earnest than they ever showed in fight-ing the Republicans, and they are sowing a crop of mutual hate and discord that is bound to produce an abundant harvest in coming contests in Nation, etate and muncipality. To the people of the country the spectacle presented by the Democracy is at once amusing and enlightening. It is also humili-ating when it is remembered that to such a party the National administration is intrusted for the coming Presi-

Cincinnati's new daily, The Tribune, has made its appearance. Typographically, subsequent numbers are improvements on the first, and the proof-reader has recovered from the holiday festivities. The news service is highly creditable, and the Washing-ton letters of General B. V. BONNON will add to the attractivenees of the paper. The Tribune's chief aim is to supply Cincinnati with a morning daily that will furnish the news, divested of this affect; and yet there is none where the cuttook is less promising. Your goody-good Cincinnatian will frown agon vice, and yet he will buy the sensational papers that he may revel in the nanoscuting details of the latest social scandel in that wicked city, while the newsboy hivers on the corner with unsold copies of the moral journal.
